All the Strength of a Flower

AUTHOR Silvio Boselli

A funny character wanders around an arid and desolate world. He arrives in front of a very high wall that cuts that battered land like a wound.

Armed with his spray can, he draws a flower on it, but is quickly stopped by a loyal policeman. The funny little man, however, does not lose heart. Because hope is just around the corner. Indeed, beyond the wall.

A poetic and dreamy book without words on the revolutionary force of kindness.

Perfect for telling even the little ones the importance of going beyond barriers that divides us from others.

SILVIO BOSELLI

Silvio Boselli illustrated books for the main Italian publishers. His stories have been published in numerous periodicals for children, such as the Corriere dei Piccoli, Airone, Linus and the Giornalino. He holds creative workshops on intercultural and global education in schools, and teaches Watercolor and Publishing at the high school of applied art of the Castello Sforzesco in Milan.

After a long swim in search of uncharted seas, Little Fish is convinced that he has finally discovered a place where no one has ever gone before. Too bad not to have a flag to plant, to let everyone know that that place belongs only to him.

“Need a flag? Here it is!” says the turtle, which appears from around the corner. And then here is the squid, the crab, the clam, the jellyfish... With great disappointment, Little Fish realizes that actually that space belongs to everyone! But he also discovers that many can play much more fun games.

A story that makes you think about our desire to possess and the pleasure and benefits of sharing.

Inventory of The Suspended Days

Happy Ideas for Hard Times

AUTHOR Agnès de Lestrade

ILLUSTRATOR Valeria Docampo

There are days that you don't feel like going anywhere. There are days you can't physically go anywhere. You feel locked, trapped. But sometimes there are enough happy little thoughts to smile and hope: for example, trying to breed a snail, to celebrate the birthday with your neighbor, or to plan the next vacation dreaming on the map.

A sweet picture book born during the pandemic, but suitable for all stages of life. Last but not least: the authors and the publisher will donate a part of the proceeds to a solidarity project.

The Little Prince

AUTHOR Agnès de Lestrade

ILLUSTRATOR Valeria Docampo

The timeless story by Antoine de Saint-Exupéry retold by beloved children's author Agnès de Lestrade, with gorgeous illustrations by Valeria Docampo. Meet the Little Prince, with his questions about love, friendship and the meaning of life, in a unique picture book true to the original but reinvented by the successful pair behind the bestseller La grande fabrique de mots (The Great Word Factory), sold in over 20 countries.

RIGHTS SOLD: ARGENTINA AND LATIN AMERICA, AUSTRIA, BELGIUM, BRAZIL, CANADA, CHINA, CROATIA, CZECH REPUBLIC, ESTONIA, FINLAND, GERMANY, GREECE, MALTA, NORWAY, ROMANIA, RUSSIA, SWITZERLAND, TAIWAN, THE NETHERLANDS, TURKEY.

Il quinto giorno ero alle prese con un bullone che non riuscivo a svitare
e non ero di ottimo umore, quando il piccolo principe mi domandò:
"Se la pecora mangia gli arbusti, mangia anche i fiori?".
"Una pecora mangia tutto quello che trova."
"Anche i fiori con le spine?"
"Certo."

"Allora a cosa servono le spine?"
"A niente. Sono solo cattiveria da parte dei fiori."
"Non è vero! I fiori sono deboli.
Io ne conosco uno... che esiste solo sul mio pianeta.
E se la pecora che mi hai disegnato se lo mangia?"
Il piccolo principe scoppiò a piangere.
Lo presi in braccio e lo cullai.
"Il fiore che ami non è in pericolo.
Disegnerò una museruola per la tua pecora".

Pebble

AUTHOR Sara Trofa

ILLUSTRATOR Simona Mulazzani

It happens to everyone to feel sometimes melancholy, to have a little pain or a concern that does not leave you alone. The characters of this book are dealing with this situation: the rabbit is sad, and the other two try to make him feel better, with a gentle question, a push in swing, a tickle assault... And show us that the best antidote to small sorrows is affection and the joy that true friends can give us.

Carlotta & the Electric Uncle

A Rock'n'roll Adventure

AUTHOR Federico Appel

Carlotta certainly does not imagine the terrible puzzle that's about to upset her summer! Uncle Arturo, the most dazed musician that exists, takes her on a road trip on a tractor and under the banner of music. The mission? Find all the pieces of the guitar by Big Mama Wolf, the greatest artist of all times. Few clues, characters definitely out of the ordinary, but above all ... the "electric" uncle will he have told the whole truth?

Guitars, drums, tractors, loves: they are all there the ingredients for an unpredictable story, full of laughs and rock'n'roll!

A Hen in a Hot-Air Balloon

The second adventure
in the Carmen and Orazio series

AUTHOR Guia Risari

ILLUSTRATOR AnnaLaura Cantone

Giacomo, Orazio's best friend, doesn't think that Carmen is intelligent. She does everything she can to make him change his mind, but he ignores her. So, for Giacomo's birthday, Carmen comes up with the "big plan": flying over Giacomo's house in a hot-air balloon with a banner that reads "Happy Birthday Giacomo!". But Carmen loses control of the balloon and one of the ballast sacks falls out. The sack hits a car that's about to run over Giacomo, saving him by a whisker. When Giacomo looks up into the sky, however, the hot-air balloon is already far away. Carmen is very upset at the failure of her grand gesture and Orazio tries to console her, telling her how wonderful it is just to be oneself. But Giacomo, who noticed a white feather stuck to the fallen ballast sack, visits Carmen to thank her and play together.

A nulla valsero i tentativi di dissuasione della madre. Tiburzio, niente affatto scoraggiato dall'essere magro magro e dall'avere un'apertura alare insignificante, cominciò a impegnarsi nella ginnastica e se comunque la differenza con le cicogne continuava a risultare piuttosto evidente, bisogna riconoscere che come cornacchia possedeva un fisichino invidiabile.

Così un bel giorno si presentò al raduno delle cicogne, che erano centinaia e tutte più alte di un metro. Pompeo dovette sforzarsi non poco perché si accorgessero di lui, ma quando conobbero il motivo della sua presenza, scoppiarono a ridere. Pompeo però non era tipo da perdersi d'animo. "Tempo al tempo", si disse, e come prima cosa ottenne di poter stare con loro. Si mise a studiare giorno e notte la geografia, disciplina fondamentale per una cicogna. Ostinato, aspettava un'occasione. E com'è giusto, l'occasione arrivò.

Stretch and Squash: Making a Ball Bounce

The goal is to make a ball bounce by dropping it from above, and thus work on the concepts of gravity and weight. Think of the ball you want to drop: is it a tennis ball or a bowling ball? Since they are made of different materials and have different sizes, they will also move differently, just like two characters that have their own identity and characteristics. Given the bounce trajectory of the ball, proceed with the filler frames using this guideline, drawing the ball without altering its shape.

Now try to apply the concept of SPACING: draw the balls closer together in the upper part of the curve and further apart close to the points of contact.

Now imagine an elastic ball that changes shape each time it bounces: before contact with the surface, draw it slightly elongated, and then more compact when it touches the ground. This is the basic concept of STRETCH AND SQUASH.

11

Looping: The Walk Cycle

The goal is to create a walk cycle LOOP. The cycle consists in 4 keyframes: two contact positions (KEYFRAMES) and two transitional positions (BREAKDOWNS).

Add two other drawings with lower and higher positions: these drawings represent the weight and nature of the individual character, just like the tennis and bowling balls.

Now add filler frames to complete the animation.
To better recognize the legs, colour or cross-hatch the one further behind.

TIP

The observation of reality helps in the representation of MOVEMENT: look at how the people around you move, or imitate the act in front of the mirror before drawing it.

THE ANCESTORS OF FILM

THE THAUMATROPE

Materials

1 sheet white poster board
1 cup coloured pencils or markers scissors hole puncher
2 rubber bands or 2 short strings

What It Is

An optical toy composed of a disk of poster board decorated with images drawn or printed on both faces, and a hole punched on either side with a short string or rubber band attached to it.

The disk has a complementary images on its two faces: the classic example is that of a small bird on one side and its cage on the other.

When the thaumatrope is still, the two images are separate; but if you twirl the disk quickly and constantly, keeping it suspended and taut between the two strings, you create the illusion that the two images are actually a single image: the little bird ends up in the cage!

This is something of a magic trick, a little visual deception which, due to the speed with which the disk is twirled, prevents the eyes from being able to see the images as unique and separate. The brain, which had already registered them at first glance, tries to come to the aid of the eyes and reconstruct them, but due to the speed of the twirling, it unites them in a single image. It was precisely from this optical illusion that the motion picture, or film, was born.

WHEN IT WAS CREATED

The thaumatrope, also known as the "magic disk," was invented between 1824 and 1925 by scientists who were studying vision. So it was not originally a toy, but rather was used to investigate the PHENOMENON OF THE PERSISTENCE OF VISION.

AN EXCERPT

There are animals we hardly know they exist, like the angonoka tortoise, the green-eyed frog and the Sumatran orangutan: critically endangered species facing a high risk of extinction in the wild. In this activity and didactic book, children will both play and learn how to create homemade stuffed animals, their names and characteristics, the reason why they could become extinct and some good habits we can learn in our daily life to prevent this. Step by step, the author explains how to create the stuffed animals by using recycled materials, such as socks, patches, zippers, buttons and more. A colourful and fun way to make children aware of what is happening to some wonderful animals around the world.

An interactive alphabet book guiding young readers through the unknown field of contemporary art, in a fresh and fun way that aims to maintain the typical gaze of a child, amazed and unprejudiced, in front of a work of art.

The intent is to accompany kids in their discovery of today's art – too often viewed as an obscure matter by adults – with a colourful, playful approach that focuses on the appealing aspects of the latest artistic expressions. Each letter refers to a key concept of contemporary art, actively involving the reader through games, since this is one of the best ways to understand art with the innocent eyes of a child.

Each letter is connected to a game or a request for interaction.

A Journey to Utòpia

AUTHORS Davide Abbati, Elia Barbieri,
Emilia Patrignani, Stefano Santamato,
Giovanni Scarduelli

Utòpia is the ideal city we all would love to live in.

Though you can't find it on any map, it has always existed in our imagination. It is a participate, smart, welcoming, sustainable and creative place where countless stories and characters weave together. A vertical colouring book two metres long, for both children and adults, to paint and hang on the wall. Five young Italian illustrators made this original and fun collective artwork peopled by humans, aliens and animals that coexist in harmony and joy.

The door's open: let's begin an extraordinary journey!

*A story 2 metres long,
to paint and hang up!*

UNO SKYLINE DI RECUPERO

Materiali di recupero, che potete facilmente trovare in cucina, con cui creiamo un collage di materiali. Costruiamo vari edifici che uniti insieme in un leprello si trasformano nello skyline di una città immaginaria.

Che cosa ti serve

- x materiali vari a rilievo
- x forbice
- x colla stick
- x colla per materiali plastici (tipo attack o artiglio)
- x carta cotone
- x colori da stampa a rilievo
- x rulli e spatole per stampare
- x cartonevegetale o cartoncino rigido (va bene anche il cartone ondulato delle scatole, oppure quello delle scatole di scarpe) tagliato in pezzi da 10x15 cm
- x macchina per la pasta

These printing techniques are designed for both children and adults. Everyone will achieve astounding results.

Come si fa

Prendete tutti i materiali a rilievo che trovate: retina delle patate, delle cipolle o degli agrumi, che possono avere disegni diversi, tappetino antiscivolo, cartone delle uova... e tagliatzeli (1) della forma che più vi piace per costruire le case e gli elementi dello skyline. Immaginate più di un edificio per realizzare uno skyline a fisarmonica come quello della foto (a pagina 33 vedere le matrici che ho realizzato).

Assemblate quindi i pezzi e create un collage sul cartone usando la colla (2) più indicata a seconda del materiale utilizzato.

CONSIGLIO Cercate di non mescolare nello stesso collage materiali molto sottili e consistenti, ma di usare elementi con spessore simile.

Realizzate un altro paio di collage per costruire uno skyline vario da assemblare come nella foto della pagina precedente.

(3) Quando la colla è asciutta e gli elementi del collage sono ben fermi sul cartoncino, potete iniziare a stampare.

Nella pagina successiva ti spiego come inchiostrare e stampare con la macchinetta della pasta, questo procedimento vale per molti dei progetti proposti.

Inchiostrare e stampare con l'imperia

Stendete uniformemente il colore con la spatola di gomma sul piano di inchiostrazione. La quantità giusta di colore non permette di vedere il piano di lavoro, ma non crea neanche uno spessore; se vi accorgete di averne steso troppo, spostate in un angolo il colore che avanza.

Caricate il rullo passandolo sul colore ben steso, evitando quello in eccesso.

Passate il rullo sul collage per inchiostrarlo.

Mettete la carta a contatto con il collage, sistemate la pressione della macchina per la pasta a seconda dello spessore del collage.

Fate passare carta e cartoncino tra i due rulli. Ora con delicatezza separate la carta dal collage, la vostra stampa è fatta.

Leave Your Mark

The pleasure of writing by hand for yourself and for others

AUTHOR Monica Dengo

Not your average penmanship manual. Colourful and agile, it's part book, part notebook.

Aimed at people who don't even use a pen and paper to write their shopping lists. To find the creative potential of a simple, natural technique with scientifically-proven cognitive activity benefits. And rediscover the fun of expressing yourself by means of a personal mark that's attractive, pleasant to draw and easy to read at the same time.

Traditional Games from Around the World

AUTHOR Carlo Carzan

ILLUSTRATOR Maddalena Gerli

Let's occupy courtyards, squares and parks again, and let's play games that cross the roads of the world and span centuries: from Ancient Greece to England, from China to...

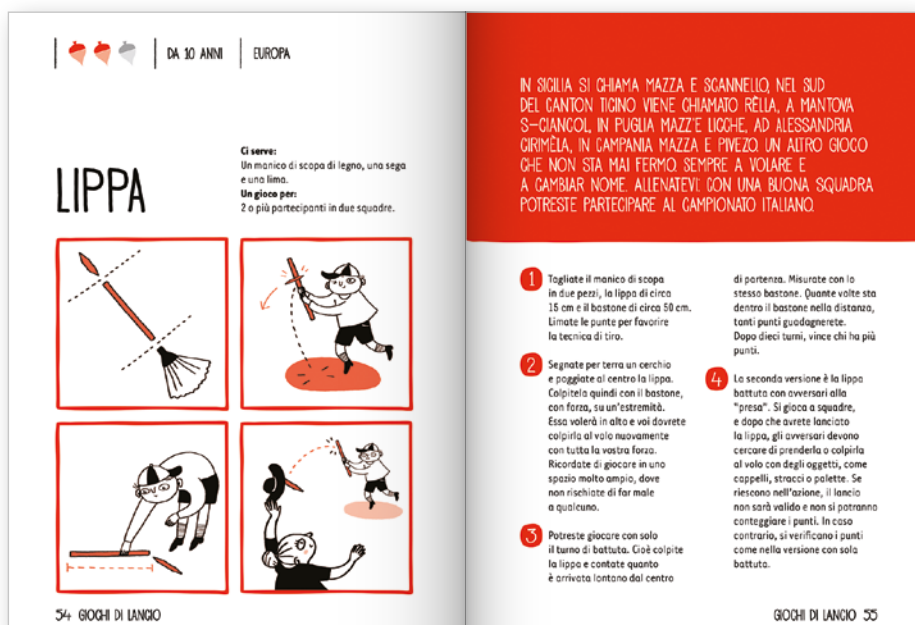

our own home! Ideal for educators and those who organise outdoor activities.

CARLO CARZAN

founded the first game room in Palermo, and he "works by playing", as he loves to say about himself. He has written many books on games and organises workshops for children.
