If you try to look inside your navel, you can find darkness, stomach ache, emotion... And above all a very hungry feeling, so much that you even want to eat your sister. And then? Between the teeth there are jumps and cream puffs.

Behind your ears, revolutions. In your feet, something strange, in fact they grow a little every day. There is an entire world in your nose. Between amazement, shock and finally pride too, the little protagonist tells about his own body and discovers to feel different and extraordinary, like each of us!

A poetic and amusing portrait of childhood.

What's inside me?

Look carefully

AUTHOR Letizia Iannaccone

Some afternoons in the garden it seems that there is nothing fun to do. But if you look with curiosity among the leaves and blades of grass, you can discover something unexpected.

For example, a small people of green creatures, ready to welcome you to their secret world.

And suddenly you too become tiny, you can introduce them to your dog, play with them, be taught how to fly on the back of a ladybug...

A wordless book about the pleasure of abandoning yourself to the imagination and the possibility of grasping magical ideas everywhere you look.

The true story of the evil witch

AUTHOR Luca Tortolini

ILLUSTRATOR Maja Celija

Nobody loves the evil witch: she is ugly, she is scary, she cannot live together with “normal” people.

Better she hide in the woods, harboring a grudge and eating the lost children she meets. Until the moment when Hansel and Gretel knock on her door.

What will happen next is a known story, but this time we have a different question: it is inevitable that the story ends like this? Is it so easy to tell the good from the bad?

An engaging story that invites you to take care diversity, to never stop to try to understand the reasons of others.

What is School?

AUTHOR Luca Tortolini

ILLUSTRATOR Marco Somà

Benches to rest the elbows, sharpeners and thoughts to exchange, teachers who teach history but also to make mistakes, girls and boys of all kinds.

A sum of differences. An open place even when it is indoors, where ideas and words are born to imagine a new world.

A passionate and grateful portrait that will resonate today more than ever in the hearts of those who experience school.

La scuola è un edificio con le pareti dove si appendono i cartelloni, con i banchi dove si appoggiano i gomiti,
e le sedie dove si appoggiano i sederi.

La scuola è uno spazio aperto anche quando è al chiuso.
Cambia sempre perché ogni giorno c'è qualcosa di nuovo.

Dentro la scuola ci sono le bambine e i bambini.
Dentro le bambine e i bambini c'è tutto.
La paura, la gioia e anche la tristezza. La rabbia e anche l'amore.
Ci sono tutti i sentimenti.
Ci puoi trovare anche pezzi di storia. Pezzi di palloncello.
Pezzi di spiaggia e di mare.
Nelle bambine e nei bambini c'è tutto il mondo.

Let's discover a particular mountain, with familiar traits, where something extraordinary happens every day. Extraordinary is the relationship between a mother and a newborn baby: the expectations, the first glances... The story of a bond that can transform the world and, even before, that changes the two protagonists: the mother and the child. Through falls and ascents, they will learn the joy of being themselves and to trust each other.

With the intense illustrations by Alessandro Sanna, first Italian Children's Laureate chosen by the Association of Independent Children's Bookstores (Alir).

All the Strength of a Flower

AUTHOR Silvio Boselli

A funny character wanders around an arid and desolate world. He arrives in front of a very high wall that cuts that battered land like a wound.

Armed with his spray can, he draws a flower on it, but is quickly stopped by a loyal policeman. The funny little man, however, does not lose heart. Because hope is just around the corner. Indeed, beyond the wall.

A poetic and dreamy book without words on the revolutionary force of kindness.

Perfect for telling even the little ones the importance of going beyond barriers that divides us from others.

SILVIO BOSELLI

Silvio Boselli illustrated books for the main Italian publishers. His stories have been published in numerous periodicals for children. He holds creative workshops and teaches Watercolor and Publishing at the high school of applied art of the Castello Sforzesco in Milan.

After a long swim in search of uncharted seas, Little Fish is convinced that he has finally discovered a place where no one has ever gone before. Too bad not to have a flag to plant, to let everyone know that that place belongs only to him.

"Need a flag? Here it is!" says the turtle, which appears from around the corner. And then here is the squid, the crab, the clam, the jellyfish... With great disappointment, Little Fish realizes that actually that space belongs to everyone! But he also discovers that many can play much more fun games.

A story that makes you think about our desire to possess and the pleasure and benefits of sharing.

He has come from afar,
swimming in warm and cold seas to get here.
No one had ever done it before!

Now he made it and here it is, his trophy:
a place all to himself.

He will plant a flag, so that the next ones will know that he arrived first,
that therefore this place belongs only to him.

"If you want, I have it", Squid comes out -

"Me!" says Clem.
"Me too!" says Jellyfish.
"Me too!" adds Hermit Crab.

And then Hedgehog, and Murex, and Murex, and Little Star.
How many are they???

Inventory of The Suspended Days

Happy Ideas for Hard Times

AUTHOR Agnès de Lestrade

ILLUSTRATOR Valeria Docampo

There are days that you don't feel like going anywhere. There are days you can't physically go anywhere. You feel locked, trapped. But sometimes there are enough happy little thoughts to smile and hope: for example, trying to breed a snail, to celebrate the birthday with your neighbor, or to plan the next vacation dreaming on the map.

A sweet picture book born during the pandemic, but suitable for all stages of life. Last but not least: the authors and the publisher will donate a part of the proceeds to a solidarity project.

AUTHOR Sara Trofa

ILLUSTRATOR Simona Mulazzani

It happens to everyone to feel sometimes melancholy, to have a little pain or a concern that does not leave you alone. The characters of this book are dealing with this situation: the rabbit is sad, and the other two try to make him feel better, with a gentle question, a push in swing, a tickle assault... 1 Che fine ha fatto Mafalda?

Apro gli occhi, esco dal letto a saltamolla. Nelle mattine d'estate come questa, mi sento piena di energia, perché non devo andare a scuola e posso fare tutto quello che voglio.

Mi lavo la faccia con l'acqua tiepida che scioglie gli ultimi sogni rimasti appiccicati fra le ciglia, scelgo i vestiti da mettere, poi vado in cucina e sul frigo trovo un bigliettino per me: "Buongiorno Adelina! La colazione ti aspetta qua fuori...". Al tavolo sul balcone, inzuppo fette di focaccia di latte nel tè. Mi piace far ciondolare i piedi scalzi tra i gerani

È tutto molto tranquillo. Forse il giardiniere riposa, spero sia così. Lo conosco da quando ero piccola, la mamma mi portava in passeggino lungo le vie, e il giardiniere non era uno di quelli che sorridevano e facevano le moine. Salutava solo scuotendo la testona di capelli arruffati, e qualche volta diceva parole che non si capivano bene, perché gli si impigliavano nella barba e nei baffi. È un vero uomo selvatico. Però offre sempre mani traboccanti di fragole, ciliegie, cipolle e carote.

A Hen in a Hot-Air Balloon

The second adventure
in the Carmen and Orazio series

AUTHOR Guia Risari

ILLUSTRATOR AnnaLaura Cantone

Giacomo, Orazio's best friend, doesn't think that Carmen is intelligent. She does everything she can to make him change his mind, but he ignores her. So, for Giacomo's birthday, Carmen comes up with the "big plan": flying over Giacomo's house in a hot-air balloon with a banner that reads "Happy Birthday Giacomo!". But Carmen loses control of the balloon and one of the ballast sacks falls out. The sack hits a car that's about to run over Giacomo, saving him by a whisker. When Giacomo looks up into the sky, however, the hot-air balloon is already far away. Carmen is very upset at the failure of her grand gesture and Orazio tries to console her, telling her how wonderful it is just to be oneself. But Giacomo, who noticed a white feather stuck to the fallen ballast sack, visits Carmen to thank her and play together.

I Want It Too

AUTHOR AND ILLUSTRATOR Gek Tessaro

Pompeo Tiburzio is a little crow who wants to be a... stork!

He convinces a flock of storks to let him carry a newborn to its mummy, but he soon realizes that he's gone the wrong way, and that the real destination is too far for his little wings. Luckily, he meets a group of bizarre characters – a knight fighting a dragon, a lion and an elephant who have escaped from a zoo and a bunch of comical pirates – who will help him on his journey. A funny story about the importance of not letting go of your dreams, of working hard to make them come true.

GEK TESSARO

is a prolific Italian author and illustrator. Among his latest published works there are: I bestiolini (Franco Cosimo Panini) and Pinocchio (Lapis Edizioni). He was awarded the Italian Andersen Prize for "Best Author" in 2010.

Our cities hold unexpected stories, starting from their very walls: a jagged mark becomes an impetuous horse; an hole – if you look carefully – is a puffer fish swimming in the sea; and that scraped plaster looks like volcano smoke, doesn't it? Two extraordinary artists – Massimiliano Tappari with his elegant black-and-white pictures, and Alessandro Sanna with his beautiful illustrations – lead us along a stunning journey, discovering an everyday life we often don't pay enough attention to. A wonderful book for all ages, a celebration of the boundless power of imagination.

Create Your Own Cartoon

AUTHORS Nadia Abate, Danilo Cinciripini, Paola Paradisi

From the pre-film era to the most imaginative animation techniques, this practical handbook explores the many faces of the “moving story”. Transforming the idea into a storyboard and giving life to characters with stop-motion, pixilation, the flipbook, cut-outs, clay, sand, or the classic technique of animation. The projects can then be filmed with a smartphone to become an actual cartoon.

Stretch and Squash: Making a Ball Bounce

The goal is to make a ball bounce by dropping it from above, and thus work on the concepts of gravity and weight. Think of the ball you want to drop: is it a tennis ball or a bowling ball? Since they are made of different materials and have different sizes, they will also move differently, just like two characters that have their own identity and characteristics. Given the bounce trajectory of the ball, proceed with the filler frames using this guideline, drawing the ball without altering its shape.

Now try to apply the concept of SPACING: draw the balls closer together in the upper part of the curve and further apart close to the points of contact.

Now imagine an elastic ball that changes shape each time it bounces: before contact with the surface, draw it slightly elongated, and then more compact when it touches the ground. This is the basic concept of STRETCH AND SQUASH.

Looping: The Walk Cycle

The goal is to create a walk cycle LOOP. The cycle consists in 4 keyframes: two contact positions (KEYFRAMES) and two transitional positions (BREAKDOWNS).

Add two other drawings with lower and higher positions: these drawings represent the weight and nature of the individual character, just like the tennis and bowling balls.

Now add filler frames to complete the animation.
To better recognize the legs, colour or cross-hatch the one further behind.

TIP

The observation of reality helps in the representation of MOVEMENT: look at how the people around you move, or imitate the act in front of the mirror before drawing it.

THE ANCESTORS OF FILM

THE THAUMATROPE

Materials

1 sheet white poster board
1 cup
coloured pencils or markers
scissors
hole puncher
2 rubber bands or 2 short strings

What It Is

An optical toy composed of a disk of poster board decorated with images drawn or printed on both faces, and a hole punched on either side with a short string or rubber band attached to it.

The disk has a complementary images on its two faces: the classic example is that of a small bird on one side and its cage on the other.

When the thaumatrope is still, the two images are separate; but if you twirl the disk quickly and constantly, keeping it suspended and taut between the two strings, you create the illusion that the two images are actually a single image: the little bird ends up in the cage!

This is something of a magic trick, a little visual deception which, due to the speed with which the disk is twirled, prevents the eyes from being able to see the images as unique and separate. The brain, which had already registered them at first glance, tries to come to the aid of the eyes and reconstruct them, but due to the speed of the twirling, it unites them in a single image. It was precisely from this optical illusion that the motion picture, or film, was born.

WHEN IT WAS CREATED

The thaumatrope, also known as the "magic disk," was invented between 1824 and 1925 by scientists who were studying vision. So it was not originally a toy, but rather was used to investigate the PHENOMENON OF THE PERSISTENCE OF VISION.

AN EXCERPT

There are animals we hardly know they exist, like the angonoka tortoise, the green-eyed frog and the Sumatran orangutan: critically endangered species facing a high risk of extinction in the wild. In this activity and didactic book, children will both play and learn how to create homemade stuffed animals, their names and characteristics, the reason why they could become extinct and some good habits we can learn in our daily life to prevent this. Step by step, the author explains how to create the stuffed animals by using recycled materials, such as socks, patches, zippers, buttons and more. A colourful and fun way to make children aware of what is happening to some wonderful animals around the world.

An interactive alphabet book guiding young readers through the unknown field of contemporary art, in a fresh and fun way that aims to maintain the typical gaze of a child, amazed and unprejudiced, in front of a work of art.

The intent is to accompany kids in their discovery of today's art – too often viewed as an obscure matter by adults – with a colourful, playful approach that focuses on the appealing aspects of the latest artistic expressions.

Each letter refers to a key concept of contemporary art, actively involving the reader through games, since this is one of the best ways to understand art with the innocent eyes of a child.

Each letter is connected to a game or a request for interaction.

A Journey to Utòpia

AUTHORS Davide Abbati, Elia Barbieri,
Emilia Patrignani, Stefano Santamato,
Giovanni Scarduelli

Utòpia is the ideal city we all would love to live in.

Though you can't find it on any map, it has always existed in our imagination. It is a participate, smart, welcoming, sustainable and creative place where countless stories and characters weave together. A vertical colouring book two metres long, for both children and adults, to paint and hang on the wall. Five young Italian illustrators made this original and fun collective artwork peopled by humans, aliens and animals that coexist in harmony and joy.

The door's open: let's begin an extraordinary journey!

*A story 2 metres long,
to paint and hang up!*

UNO SKYLINE DI RECUPERO

Materiali di recupero, che potete facilmente trovare in cucina, con cui creiamo un collage di materiali. Costruiamo vari edifici che uniti insieme in un lequello si trasformano nello skyline di una città immaginaria.

Che cosa ti serve

- materiali vari a rilievo
- forbice
- colla stick
- colla per materiali plastici (tipo attack o artigiani)
- carta colorata
- colori da stampa a rilievo
- rolli e spatole per stampare
- cartonvetro o cartoncino rigido (va bene anche il cartone ondulato delle scatole, oppure quello delle scatole di scarpe) tagliato in pezzi da 10x15 cm
- macchina per la pasta

26

These printing techniques are designed for both children and adults. Everyone will achieve astounding results.

Come si fa

Prendete tutti i materiali a rilievo che trovate: setina delle patate, delle cipolle o degli agrumi, che possono avere disegni diversi, tappetino antiscivolo, cartone delle uova... e tagliuzzateli! (1) della forma che più vi piace per costruire le case e gli elementi dello skyline. Immaginate più di un edificio per realizzare uno skyline a fantasia come quello della foto (a pagina 30 vedete le matrici che ho realizzato).

Assemblate quindi i pezzi e create un collage sul cartone usando la colla (2) più indicata a seconda del materiale utilizzato.

CONSIGLIO Cercate di non mescolare nello stesso collage materiali molto sottili e consistenti, ma di usare elementi con spessore simile.

Realizzate un altro paio di collage per costruire uno skyline vario da assemblare come nella foto della pagina precedente.

(3) Quando la colla è asciutta e gli elementi del collage sono ben fermi sul cartoncino, potete iniziare a stampare.

Nella pagina successiva ti spiego come inchiostrare e stampare con la macchina della pasta, questo procedimento vale per tutti dei progetti proposti.

28

[continua]

Inchiostrare e stampare con l'imperia

Stendere uniformemente il colore con la spatola di gomma sul piano di inchiostrazione. La quantità giusta di colore non permette di vedere il piano di lavoro, ma non crea neanche uno spessore, se vi accorgete di averne uno troppo, spostate in un angolo il colore che avanza.

Caricate il rullo passando sul colore ben steso, evitando quello in eccesso.

Passate il rullo sul collage per inchiostrarlo.

Mettete la carta a contatto con il collage, sistemate la pressione della macchina per la pasta a seconda dello spessore del collage.

Fate passare carta e cartoncino tra i due rulli. Ora con delicatezza separate la carta dal collage, la vostra stampa è fatta.
