An antidote to plant blindness that stimulates curiosity and love for the green space around us.

Twelve colorful portraits of trees that highlight the peculiarities of the trunks, foliage, flowers and fruits. A passionate tribute to these silent and reassuring playmates, and to the climbing and discoveries of a group of children who love to be outdoors and who dream for a life in harmony with nature and everything around us. Dans le jardin, the previous book by Irene Penazzi, has been included in the Ibbv Honour List 2020.

A fairytale that mixes humor and tenderness, which tells how difficult and important it is to welcome changes, and how unpredictable the paths of love are.

The Catpenter knows how to make the right cat for each customer, and there is always a large queue outside his shop. One day, a very sad child arrives, with a piece of paper full of indications. The catpenter gets to work, but when the child sees the result, he runs home in tears: it's not the cat he wanted! Not his old cat Brownie! The new cat, however, immediately falls in love with the child, he runs away to look for him and, with his sweet tenacity, he will be able to overcome all resistance.

A vibrant build-up story to talk about the risks of disinformation.

No one has seen the mole around for some time... Where will she be gone? She ran away because she angered the farmer? Did she go to New York to run the marathon? Has she become a celebrity and is she going to make a movie? In a messed-up wireless phone, the animals of the forest and farm are exchanging more and more hypotheses striking about the fate of their friend. Who will be right?

The most loved game by all children becomes the occasion to experience cooperation and inclusion.

Bear likes to swing alone. All the time. All day. But Badger, Dog, and all the others like to swing too. Yet, Bear never leaves it, never. And so, often, someone is sad. The dog then has an idea: he calls his big cousins that close the playground and get to work. The next day, instead of the swing, there is a new game, where there is room for everyone, even for Bear.

Inventory of The Suspended Days

Happy Ideas for Hard Times

The new title of the beloved duo Agnès de Lestrade & Valeria Docampo.

There are days that you don't feel like going anywhere. There are days you can't physically go anywhere. You feel locked, trapped. But sometimes there are enough happy little thoughts to smile and hope: for example, trying to breed a snail, to celebrate the birthday with your neighbor, or to plan the next vacation dreaming on the map.

A sweet picture book born during the pandemic, but suitable for all stages of life. Last but not least: the authors and the publisher will donate a part of the proceeds to a solidarity project.

The True Story of the Evil Witch

By the same writer of "What is School?"

Nobody loves the evil witch: she is ugly, she is scary, she can not live together with "normal" people.

Better she hide in the woods, harboring a grudge and eating the lost children she meets. Until the moment when Hansel and Gretel knock on her door.

What will happen next is a known story, but this time we have a different question: is it inevitable that the story ends like this? Is it so easy to tell the good from the bad?

An engaging story that invites you to take care of diversity, to never stop to try to understand the reasons of others.

The ten days of the colander

An approaching survey for young readers on the danger of “fake news.”

Nico, Luca, and Alina are great friends, going to school together and planning adventures in an old tin shed. Everything runs smoothly until the adults start wearing a metal colander as their headgear. First Nico’s father, then the mailman, the teacher, and even an influencer. Apparently, the kitchen utensil is able to protect our thoughts from “THEM.” But who them? Something doesn’t add up. So among self-styled preachers and alarmist blogs, the three friends decide to investigate to find out the truth.

A HEN IN A HOT-AIR BALLOON

The Second Adventure of Carmen and Orazio

AUTHOR Guida Risari

ILLUSTRATOR AnnaLaura Cantone

Giacomo, Orazio's best friend, doesn't like Carmen at all. So, for Giacomo's birthday, Carmen comes up with the "big plan": flying over Giacomo's house in a hot-air balloon with a banner that reads "Happy Birthday Giacomo!". But Carmen loses control of the balloon and one of the ballast sacks falls out and hits a car that's about to run over Giacomo, saving him by a whisker. When Giacomo looks up into the sky, however, the hot-air balloon is already far away.

Carmen is very upset at the failure of her grand gesture, but Giacomo - who noticed a white feather stuck to the fallen ballast sack - is going to change his attitude towards her.

SAVE THE ANIMALS!

AUTHOR Silvia Bonanni

Have fun creating your animals out of recycled materials!

There are animals we hardly know they exist, like the angonoka tortoise, the green-eyed frog and the Sumatran orangutan: critically endangered species facing a high risk of extinction in the wild. In this activity and didactic book, children will both play and learn how to create homemade stuffed animals, their names and characteristics, the reason why they could become extinct and some good habits we can learn in our daily life to prevent this. Step by step, the author explains how to create the stuffed animals by using recycled materials, such as socks, patches, zippers, buttons and more.

A colourful and fun way to make children aware of what is happening to some wonderful animals around the world.

CONTEMPORARY ART IS A CHILD'S PLAY

AUTHORS Elena Valdré, Giulia Volontè

An interactive alphabet book guiding young readers through the unknown field of contemporary art, in a fresh and fun way that aims to maintain the typical gaze of a child, amazed and unprejudiced, in front of a work of art. The intent is to accompany kids in their discovery of today's art – too often viewed as an obscure matter by adults – with a colourful, playful approach that focuses on the appealing aspects of the latest artistic expressions. Each letter refers to a key concept of contemporary art, actively involving the reader through games, since this is one of the best ways to understand art with the innocent eyes of a child.

A JOURNEY TO UTÒPIA

AUTHORS Davide Abbati, Elia Barbieri, Emilia Patrignani, Stefano Santamato, Giovanni Scarduelli

Utòpia is the ideal city we all would love to live in. Though you can't find it on any map, it has always existed in our imagination. It is a participate, smart, welcoming, sustainable and creative place where countless stories and characters weave together. A vertical colouring book two metres long, for both children and adults, to paint and hang on the wall. Five young Italian illustrators made this original and fun collective artwork peopled by humans, aliens and animals that coexist in harmony and joy. The door's open: let's begin an extraordinary journey!

A story 2 metres long, to paint and hang up!
